

GERMAN TORPEDO SINKS BRITISH LINER ARABIC; FEAR LARGE DEATH LIST

HAD 423 PASSENGERS

WHITE STAR STEAMER GOES DOWN OFF FASTNET, NEAR SCENE OF LUSITANIA DISASTER.

Crew Able to Launch Only Eleven Life-boats, Indicating a Large Number May Have Perished—Boat Bound for New York.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Aug. 19.—The White Star liner, Arabic, which sailed yesterday from Liverpool for New York, has been sent to the bottom off Fastnet on the south coast of Ireland, not far from the point at which the Lusitania was sunk by a German submarine.

Such reports as were available in London early this evening indicated that the greater part of the 410 persons on board had been saved. The first reports were that all of the passengers and crew had been rescued by another steamer. Subsequently, however, it was announced the Arabic had gone down in eleven minutes, raising the question whether it would have been possible to rescue all on board in that brief time. A message to the White Star company left this question open. It said from 15 to 18 boats were making for Queens-town and from this the company inferred the greater part of the passengers and crew were saved.

The Arabic was sent to the bottom by a torpedo from a German submarine. The torpedo struck her at nine-fifteen o'clock this morning.

The Central News says the crew of the Arabic succeeded in launching eleven life boats which picked up many passengers. It has not yet been ascertained, this agency said, how many were drowned. The Exchange Telegraph company says a rescuing steamer has 400 persons on board. Weather conditions are favorable.

The Press association states it is feared a large number of passengers have been lost. The message says: "Eleven boats got away and it is feared a large number of passengers were lost."

The White Star Line, after first announcing there were 410 persons on board, later gave out a corrected statement, giving the total number as 423. There were 132 second cabin passengers, 48 in steerage and 243 members of the crew.

No Word at Washington.

Washington, Aug. 19.—At two this afternoon neither the American consuls in the vicinity of Fastnet nor the embassy at London had reported the sinking of the Arabic and the state department had no official information. As in other cases officials reserved their comment awaiting details and news whether or not any Americans had been lost.

On her last eastward trip the Arabic arrived in Liverpool on Aug. 18 from New York. Following the receipt of a cablegram announcing her safe arrival, the bureau of consular affairs in New York City allowed the fact to become known that two sticks of dynamite had been discovered on board the liner on July 27th, the night before she sailed from New York.

Once before since the beginning of the war the Arabic had a close call. A cable message from London on March 27, said the steamer had been hit by a German submarine in the Irish sea in a voyage which ended on that day. According to this account, a periscope was sighted as the steamer went in from St. George's channel and it was obvious that a hostile submarine was in pursuit. The Arabic put on full steam and outdistanced the submarine.

On the occasion of the apparent attempt to dynamite the Arabic last month the explosive which was discovered by a private detective, was concealed under a settee in the women's parlor in the second cabin. It was found in the women's parlor in the second cabin. No fuse detonated or wiring was attached to the dynamite which apparently had been placed there some time before. A thorough search of the ship was made by detectives before she sailed on her last eastward trip on July 23, but no explosives were found.

On her recent trip the Arabic carried far fewer passengers than on former voyages in times of peace. There were 102 passengers in the cabin, of whom five were Americans, and eighty in the steerage on her last voyage.

The Arabic's tonnage was 15,801 tons gross, 600 feet long, 85 feet beam and 47 feet in depth. She was built in Belfast in 1902.

Two British Boats Sunk.

London, Aug. 19.—The Wilson liner (Glen) of 1,950 tons, and the British steamer Serbin of 2,200 tons, have been sunk. Their crews were saved.

London, 6:55 P. M.—The British steamer, Magnolia, reports by wireless that the Dunsley was also torpedoed, but that when the message was sent, the Dunsley was still afloat and was picking up survivors. The Dunsley left Liverpool yesterday for Boston. The ship is of 500 tons, and of sufficient size to accommodate many survivors. Captain Finch is in command of the steamer.

Norway Makes Protest.

Christiania, Aug. 19.—The halting yesterday of the steamer Haakon VII, and the seizure of mails on board by German submarines, have been followed by protests to Berlin and demand of the return of the mails to Norway. The Haakon VII was bound from Bergen to England.

MAXIMS OF CHINESE WARRIOR OF 1150 B. C. ACCOUNT FOR VON HINDENBURG'S SUCCESS

General von Hindenburg.

The strategy and tactics of Field Marshal von Hindenburg, one of the commanding figures of the world war, did not originate in the brain of the great German commander, a fact that von Hindenburg frankly admits. To a great extent his maxims are those of the great Chinese warrior Loutao, who lived about 1150 B. C.

PLACATE FACTIONS IN MEXICO IS TASK FOR GENERAL SCOTT

Villa Will Be Easy to Eliminate While Carranza Offers a Serious Obstacle to Pan-American Peace Plans.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, Aug. 19.—General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the U. S. army and noted Indian (tamer) in the last established government of Mexico, is regarded as the best man for the work of restoring order and establishing a constitution. He is friendly with Carranza, but he is not friendly with Villa. Carranza nor Villa, indeed, Villa opposes the former brigand of the Chihuahua mountains prefers Tagle, who is said to be physically incapacitated.

One of the first undertakings of General Scott if he is given full power to act in Mexico—will be to induce Carranza, Villa and other revolutionary bosses to unite on a temporary president, who will carry out the work of reconstruction. These are Lascruain, Tagle and Hernandez. All were members of Carranza's cabinet.

TEXAS STORM DEATH LIST STILL GROWS

FOUR HUNDRED LIVES LOST ACCORDING TO LATEST COLLECTED ESTIMATES.

TWO DREDGES WRECKED

Crews of Over a Hundred Men Believed to Have Been Drowned.—Property Damage Not So Heavy as Supposed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Reports that up to noon today trickled through to the outside world from the southeast Texas district swept by the West Indian hurricane, served to increase the probable number of dead, but placed estimate on property loss at several million dollars under those previously given. Collected reports, several of which were unconfirmed, sent the total for reported dead above four hundred, while today's reports indicated the property loss would be less than $15,000,000 all told, with Galveston and Houston the heaviest sufferers.

Galveston Loss $10,000,000.

A newspaper correspondent returned from Galveston with the estimate that property damage there would be about $10,000,000. Estimates based on reports received in Dallas placed Galveston damage as low as $3,000,000. In Houston property valued at $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 was destroyed.

The list of reported dead fluctuated as the hours passed and it was believed that the exact number never could be definitely determined. The list reported up to noon is: Virginia Point, 50; Texas City, 32; Brazos life saving station, 19; Galveston, 14; Patton, 11; Morgan Point, 7; Hitchcock, 7; La Porte, 7; Port Arthur, 6; Beaumont, 20; Sylvan Beach, 3; Lynchburg, 3; Seabrook, 5; Dickenson, 1.

Dredges Reported Sunk.

This cable is in addition to the report of the sinking of dredges Sam Houston and San Jacinto with about 100 missing also thirty persons on board the steamer at Port Bolivar lighthouse, and 100 persons marooned on Marsh Island, 150 miles southwest of New Orleans.

The velocity of the wind that struck Galveston Monday afternoon is said to have gone as high as 120 miles an hour.

193 Dead and Missing.

Galveston, Texas, Aug. 19 (by courier).—The total missing and known dead from an area 100 miles wide along the Texas coast extending on to San Jacinto and San Antonio, with the known dead less than 193, Galveston city and island missing and dead were 12. Galveston, though suffering a proportionately small percentage of fatalities, has sustained the heaviest property loss.

Fifty-six Men Aboard.

Beaumont, Texas, Aug. 19.—The dredge Sam Houston went down in Galveston bay during the storm with fifty-six men aboard, according to C. W. Edwards, Jr., an employee of the North American Dredging company who has just arrived at Virginia Point on the tug Roan.

Captain James M. Trehan of the Bowers Southern Dredge company, who reached Beaumont early today, said his way from Galveston to Port Arthur, in search of his family, declared several of the survivors of the Houston, up when he left Galveston at noon yesterday. Captain Trehan also stated the Bowers dredge San Jacinto, with a crew of fifty-six, and the company's tug No. 4, were missing, but he knew nothing of their fate.

Thirty persons who boarded a steamer at Port Bolivar lighthouse Monday night were believed to have been lost when the vessel broke up, its masts and rigging drifted into the Gulf.

Storm Toll Exaggerated.

Dallas, Aug. 19.—With information from Galveston and from points from the Texas southeast Gulf coast sloping through, it seemed on a rainy early today that the terrific tropical storm of this week had exacted only a comparatively more smaller number of human lives, and that the toll on property in the city of Galveston, at least, was small as compared to the storm of 1900.

That the great two and a half million dollar damage in Galveston this week based upon a report placed at $3,000,000 with a loss of fourteen lives. In 1900 8,000 persons met death and property loss reached $15,000,000.

First reports yesterday placed the Galveston death list as high as 500, and the damage as high or even higher than the $15,000,000 mark, but by later advices brought out by couriers, newspapermen and other persons who spoke with more authority, it is possible however, that the number of dead at Galveston and other points may be increased by the finding of bodies as the water recedes.

Reported Death Estimate.

While the death toll of the storm district is yet to be heard from the number of deaths based on the best obtainable information, are as follows: Texas City, 32; Galveston, 14; Morgan Point, 7; Hitchcock, 7; La Porte, 7; Port Arthur, 6; Sylvan Beach, 3; Lynchburg, 3; Seabrook, 5; Houston, 5; and Dickenson, 1.

Reports from Beaumont say that 56 were lost and the dredge Sam Houston went down in Galveston Bay. It also is reported that the dredge San Jacinto with a crew of 56 and a tug on the same, are believed lost.

Thirty persons who boarded the steamer Port Bolivar light house were thought to have perished when the vessel broke from its moorage and drifted into the Gulf, according to reports from Port Bolivar. There were various reports of missing persons throughout the devastated zone.

ITALY'S MOBILIZATION OF CIVIL RESOURCES PROCEEDING RAPIDLY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Rome, Aug. 18.—The mobilization of Italy's industrial and civilian resources is proceeding rapidly. Local committees have been established in all localities and are gathering a register of names of those who are ready to take the place of men serving in the army. The persons obtained through the register will be carefully distributed in an effort to reduce to a minimum the disturbance to the economic life of the country. The volunteers on the register are women, old men, children, and persons physically unfit for military service.

It is reported that the women street car conductors have been asked to work in Rome and Naples, preference being given to the wives and dependents of the fighting men who have gone to the front. The Naples women conductors wear a particularly natty uniform of gray-green, with velvet collar and belt, and black silk cap.

In Rome, three hundred women are being trained for the work of street removal, street cleaning and similar occupations.

RAILROAD MEN HERE WATCH FOR NEGROES WHO CAUSED KILLING

Employees of Both Roads on Lookout for Pair Who Escaped Posses at New Butler Tuesday Night.

Train crews and railroad men of both local roads throughout yesterday and today kept a sharp lookout for two negroes who on Tuesday night were directly the cause of wounding a C. & N. W. Ry watchman and indirectly responsible for the death of a deputy sheriff and the wounding of another deputy and the arrest of a railroad switchman as the man who shot the deputies near Milwaukee.

Bernard McGoldrick, a switchyard watchman, stopped the negroes in the yards at New Butler, a short distance from Milwaukee. One of the pair shot him in the leg and the two then beat him unconscious. The negroes, with their guns, terrorized the villagers, brought to the scene by the revolver report and escaped on a train bound for Fond du Lac.

Northern Railway officials at Milwaukee were notified and with an undersheriff and half a dozen deputies drove to a tower half a mile north of New Butler, the railway men in the morning. McGoldrick, the watchman, was hit in the chest and almost instantly killed. Henry Kuhlman, 54, another deputy sheriff, received bullets in the face, shoulder and arm. The other negroes were seen to leave the train. They are still at large with the sheriffs and posses of three counties scouring the country.

A negro was tall, the other short, while both wore dark suits and black soft hats. The taller appeared to be about thirty-five years of age and was of a medium build, slim build and smooth face. The second was about twenty-four or twenty-five years old, a few inches in height, of medium build, with a round, smooth face of light complexion.

CREWS ARE AT WORK ON EDGERTON ROAD

Highway Is Torn Up In Four Places.—Other Road Work In County Is Progressing Rapidly.

Within a few days the Edgerton-Janesville road will be torn up in four different places, which will close it to all traffic. A crew is building a stretch of cement work just outside of Edgerton. McGoldrick is moving his outfit to the town of Janesville. Drew & Garry are moving the crusher outfit from Leyden to a point in the vicinity of the county farm where a piece of resurfacing will be laid, and another stretch of resurfacing will be done in the town of Fulton.

The work on the Janesville-Evansville road in the town of Center is completed and the road will be open to traffic within a few days. The Willowdale road is finished and Hughes & Perry have finally put the finishing touches on the Milwaukee road. Bright will complete the Happy Hollow road this week.

Highway Commissioner Moore states that the cement work on the Milwaukee road in Turtle is progressing excellently, with about 1,000 feet already poured.

At a meeting of the county road committee held earlier in the week it was decided that the state engineering department shall give all the surveying work of Rock county for county and state aid highways. The new state law provides that counties shall have the option of employing their own surveyors or private companies to do the work, but the county committee favored the state as the highway commission must approve all surveying plans and the charge has always been reasonable. In the past, about $20 for new work and about $10 for resurfacing. The surveying for 1916 work will cost the county between $800 and $1,000, according to Mr. Moore.

ITALIAN MOTHER IS GIVEN A NEW HOME

Janesville Family Takes Interest In Plight of Maria Gulick and Aids Them.

Philanthropically inclined persons have taken an interest in the plight of the Italian mother and her pretty daughter and this morning Maria Gulick and her child were taken to a residence where they will be given a home and care for the present at least. Superintendent of Poor Asa Anderson this morning, accompanied by Mrs. Gulick and today the little Italian girl opened her black eyes in wonder and amazement at the "fineries" of the new home. She has a playmate about her own age and the mother is happy. Mrs. Gulick was undecided as to what to do, but pleadings finally won her approval to leave the Italian colony for her new home. Meanwhile no trace can be found of the husband.

NEED FIRST PAPERS FOR HUNTING PERMIT

NOTICE OF NEW FEATURES OF FIRE AND GAME LAWS, RECEIVED BY COUNTY CLERK LEE.

MOVE AGAINST ALIENS

Italians Termed as Worst Violators of Regulations.—Season Opens Sept. Seventh.

County Clerk Howard W. Lee received yesterday morning from Madison the effect that 2,500 resident hunting licenses had been shipped to him by express. That there will be a large demand for licenses this year is evidenced by the number of applications already made and by the fact that the bird season opens Sept. 7 and technically all old licenses expire on May 1. Mr. Lee is receiving applications, but will issue no licenses until about the first of September.

Copies of the new game laws are still in the hands of the printers, due to the legislative session extending so late into August, holding many fish and game laws in abeyance. These, however, the latter stated, will be shipped as soon as received from the printer.

New features of the rules governing the issuance of licenses include the execution of an application blank by a person authorized to administer an oath in the case where the applicant is not personally known to the county clerk. Again, no licenses will be issued to persons who have not taken out their first application papers. This is to weed out aliens, the latter states, and continuing along the same line relates: "The Italian especially is the greatest violator of our game laws. He shoots anything and everything. They go out in groups of five or more and will clean out a woods of every living animal. If an alien comes in for a hunting license insist upon seeing his first citizen papers. Most of them will answer 'yes' to any question and afterwards swear they did not understand."

Another provision of Wisconsin law is that a license cannot be issued to any person under the age of fifteen years.

The open season for hunting water fowl in this state is near at hand, beginning Sept. 7 and closing Dec. 1. The season for woodcock opens later, on Oct. 1 and ends Dec. 31. Hunters want to observe the federal regulations as they take precedence over state laws. The open season for quail is Nov. 1, or 20 days later than formerly.

With the approach of the open season for shooting wild fowl, the U. S. Department of Agriculture is warning sportsmen that the federal regulations, amended Oct. 1, 1914, will be strictly enforced. Some misunderstanding has arisen from the fact that the various state laws do not always conform to the federal regulations. It is urged that sportsmen be sure that they are in compliance with the federal regulations, and will hold no public hearing thereon, nor will it amend the regulations prior to Oct. 1, 1915. It is the purpose of the department to conform the regulations to the wishes of the majority of sportsmen as far as it can be done and at the same time will hold the necessary.

Federal regulations divide the United States into two zones. Zone No. 1, the breeding zone, includes the states of Oregon, Idaho, Colorado, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey, and all states north of them, which includes Wisconsin. Zone No. 2, the wintering zone, includes all states south of those named.

The open season for migratory birds under the federal regulations in Zone No. 1 are as follows, and hunters will do well to cut out this article and keep it for future reference.

Insectivorous birds are protected indefinitely. Band tailed pigeons, curlews, cranes, swans, smaller shore birds, and wood ducks are protected until Sept. 1, 1918. Rails in Vermont and woodcock in Illinois are also protected until 1918.

Shooting is prohibited between sunset and sunrise, or at any time on sections of the upper Mississippi and Missouri rivers.

The following are considered migratory insectivorous birds, for which there is a closed season at all times. Bobolinks, cardinals, chickadees, crows, flycatchers, grosbeaks, humming birds, kinglets, nuthatches, meadow larks, night hawks or bull bats, nutcrackers, orioles, robins, shrikes, swallows, swifts, tanagers, titmice, thrushes, vireos, warblers, waxwings, whippoorwill, woodpeckers, and wrens and all other perching birds which feed entirely or chiefly on insects.

The open season in Wisconsin is as follows: Woodcock, Sept. 7 to Dec. 1; Rail, Oct. 1 to Dec. 31; Shore birds, Sept. 7 to Dec. 1.

Branch Rickey, leader of the Browns, is following the lead of Connie Mack in going to the colleges for his recruits. Rickey has dug up three varsity men who give promise of forming the foundation of the Browns' place club long absent by St. Louis. The trio consists of Dr. Johnny Lavan, shortstop for the Browns for two seasons; George Sisler, Akron boy, who pitched for the University of Michigan, and Ernie Kook, who jumped to the Browns from the Western Normal College team of Kalamazoo. Lavan, although on the Browns before Rickey was made manager, was developed into a star by Branch at Michigan.

RECRUITS ARE ONES TO TURN THE TIDE

In the National League Youngsters on the Teams Made the Leaders Appear as Winners.

Managers Fred Clarke of the Pirates and Paul Moran of the Phillies before this year's National League race opened declared if they wanted to be in the running for the championship they would have to secure young material to replace the veterans. The former's club made a miserable showing last season and the one before because it lacked the punch. Moran was with the Phillies and he realized that they would be unable to put up a strenuous fight unless aggressive young men were secured. Like Clarke, he set out to revise the team, and did so with the result that he has had his club on top for a long stretch.

Clarke gets some youngsters. Clarke was a bit slow in getting his club rounded into shape. He tried youngsters at the opening and gave them trials at different positions, but was unable to find satisfactory men. He stuck to his staff, however, and finally located the players in the positions in which he thought they belonged. That he made the proper choice is apparent from the article of ball the Pirates have been playing. They were close to the cellar at one time, but vim and determination have brought them into the first division.

Pirates Much Improved. Bill Hinchman, who is playing right field, is not a recruit, but he still has enough good baseball left in him to hold his own. His best work is done in the plate. Third Baseman Clarke has because he is a brilliant fielder and has the earmarks of developing into a consistent hitter. He is a long hitter. He has been made the regular center fielder, is delivering in sterling fashion, while Johnson is playing a whole of a game at first. These three men have improved the club.

The Pittsburgh commander thinks he will keep his team in the race, as he is getting steady work out of his pitching staff. Max Baer is the star, while Harmon, Adams and Cooper are effective performers.

Bancroft is a Real Star. Moran has kept the Phillies at the head of the procession as a result of the improvement he made in his infield. Bancroft is the star. Without him it is asserted, the Phillies would not be in the race, but Grover Alexander deserves a lot of credit for what the club has done. Moran also is deserving of praise for the way he has handled his men, and also for the successful alterations he has made at second base and center field, with the acquisition of Niehoff and Whitely. These men were secured on Moran's advice and he made no mistake. It is apparent from the Philadelphia team's standing in the race.

Dodgers, Too, Are Hustling. Other managers have striven to better their lineups with recruits, ambitious and aggressive, but they have not been as successful as Clarke and Moran. Brooklyn's team consists of a bunch of young players, but most of them were on the team last season and the year before. They have been taught to hustle and fight and that is why the club is in the first division. The opinion among baseball men is that if they continue the close of the fight, will find the Dodgers on top, or mighty near it. Robinson's best improvements were in the pitching staff when he secured Dell Smith and Douglas.

Clarry Marshall, young New Yorker who knocked out Young Nolan in Gotham the other night, had no other course than to resign his position as his sister, Miss Rosa Egan, and her stood outside the ropes and urged him on. In addition 100 chorus girls in the audience were rooting for him.

The loyalty of Lear and Benton in their efforts to get in condition following their suspension, is a great tribute to the ability of Manager Charles Herzog to show his players wherein they are wrong. Both pitchers are quoted as admitting they were not entitled to pay when pitching the kind of ball they have been putting up.

GERMAN NEWSPAPERS GIVE EMPEROR CREDIT FOR HELIGOLAND DEAL

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Amsterdam, Aug. 19.—The German newspapers publish long eulogies of the Emperor on the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the signing of the agreement with Great Britain for the cession to Germany of the island of Heligoland.

The editorials pay tribute to the Emperor's foresight in obtaining the island, without which the present defense of the German coast and the development of the German navy would have been impossible. "Had the Emperor not taken Heligoland," remarks one editor, "the present war would have been impossible for Germany."

WHITE SOX CLIMB BY BEATING BOSTON

Take Measure of Leaders and Narrow Up Gap From First Place—Cubs Lambast Brooklyn.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—Members of the White Sox club went out today to make it two straight over the leading Boston team and to narrow down the gap that separates them from first place—and peasant hopes. Yesterday the Sox gained on the Boston team through a bitterly fought victory by the count of 5 to 3.

Eddie Murphy, the Athletic veteran, was one of the chief factors in the victory on both the offense and defense for his triple in the fifth inning brought home three runs and the former Mackman cut off scores at the plate by perfect pegging and pinched two long drives that would have spelled defeat. Russell and Leonard hooked up in the slugging duel and the Red Sox south paw had it on Russell's account in the pinches when Russell had enough in reserve to check the victors. The Boston swat kings gathered up a total of thirteen hits while the Sox got only seven but the bunching of hits by the Sox brought the win. Fournier started the victory in the second when he doubled and was sacrificed to third. Felsch was hit and Schalk tangled. The game was won in the fifth when Blackburn walked, Russell singled and Murphy whined out a triple, scoring both Eddie Collins and Murphy. A rally gave the Red Sox one in the sixth and two in the eighth when Faber replaced Russell on the slab.

Fournier, the Sox first baseman and cloutier, received a badly sprained arm when he was reaching for a wild throw and a runner crashed into him. Schalk caught in faultless style, despite his injury.

Cubs Trounce Robins. Brooklyn, Aug. 19.—Chicago's re-set Cubs began their invasion of the east by facing Brooklyn by the one of 9 to 0 yesterday and today they were but three games from the lead. Bresnahan was behind the bat and led the Cubs with plenty of fight through the game to a slugging victory. Big Jim Vaughn, who earned a good share of the day's honors for his allowed but nine, well scattered hits. Smith, a recruit, opposed him but none all appearances. Smith had no business on the winning slab. Zimmerman scored three in the third, a terrific blow that turned into a home run. Appleton replaced the recruit and was used badly by the rambling Cubs in the sixth. The Cubs were caught in double plays or the score would have been greater.

Dedicate New Park. Boston, Mass.—The biggest crowd that ever saw a ball game filled the Braves' new baseball park yesterday and witnessed the Braves' triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals by the score of 3 to 1. The official estimate of the attendance was between 46,000 and 47,000 and thousands were turned away.

The world's pennant, by the Braves last year was raised. Snodgrass is Canned. New York.—Fred Snodgrass, outfielder with the New York Nationals since 1908, was given his unconditional release by Manager McGraw yesterday.

MORRIS MILLER

Why not Connie Mack for the new experimental board established by Secretary Daniels? Mack is doing as much experimenting as any other person in the country.

"I like Connie," said Charles Somers, "and I hope he does well. But as for selling him Joe Jackson that is a matter where friendship league club is about as well put a padlock on my park as to dispose of this slugger."

There are two reasons advanced for Connie Mack letting Eddie Murphy go. One was that he had not been hitting. The other is that early in the spring Mack wanted Murphy to try his hand at third base. Murphy played a couple of games there, then declared he would quit before he would stick on the job. When a player tells Mack he will quit Connie usually seeks to it that he does quit, as far as the Athletics are concerned, at any rate.

Gossip has it that Ed Sweeney will be shipped to Indianapolis of the league club which if all the major league clubs waive claims to his services. Big league clubs are not likely to break their necks scrambling for Happy Ed. An $8,000 a year contract goes with this chattel.

Leslie Numamaker appears to have reformed since the arrival of Alexander and the rumored departure of Sweeney. This big fellow was always a wolf in practice but too cautious under real fire. Numamaker would make a pretty fair backstop if he had the necessary self-assurance.

Pitcher John Warhop, Catcher Ed Sweeney and Charles Mullen, substitute first baseman, have been released to the Richmond-International league club by the Yankees. Warhop and Sweeney have been with the Yanks since 1908. The shift isn't worrying Sweeney, though. He's sure of an $8,000 salary until the end of next season.

Outfielder Tydemann of Topeka, in a recent Topeka-Lincoln double-header, muffed three fly balls, and in each case he recovered the ball in time to force a runner at second and save himself an error.

IT IS ALL GONE.

The glory of war is gone. The brass buttons, the blaring bands, the shining bayonets, the bright uniforms have passed away. A Winona exchange in commenting upon the alteration in ideals, says:
"In their appeal to the stark virtue of courage and the lust of conflict more or less inherent in the human race war and the life military have undeniably exerted great popular attraction. 'Have exerted' comes advisedly. The European war continues 'ad nauseam' and the dull of the battlefield are daily extracting whatever stern delights of modern warfare the schools of blood-and-iron theorists had not cast out in the days of peace."

"We have grown used to khaki as a substitute for brass buttons and gold lace. We know that a modern engagement is a contest of ditch digging and that a formal battle with the enemies matching strength in the open is extant only in the movies. The thunder of charging cavalry has given way to the stutering of motor-exhausts. Each of these improvements in the art of killing en masse subtracts its little from the 'joy of battle.' Now comes information from Berlin and London that the experts have condemned the rifle as a futile weapon. The machine gun is more effective. The Germans have developed a new machine gun, and the British are beginning to be concerned over the paucity of the rapid-firers as over the dearth of ammunition."

"Of the inspiring sights which give militarism a grip on the imagination one of the chief is a well-trained body of men at drill. The rhythmic coordination of the manual of arms, the executed, has unquestioned fascination. And the drill of the foot soldier, from the simple manual to the most complex formations, depends upon the light and handy rifle."

"When the rifle is discarded, we shall still have drill, of course. But how can a machine gun, from its very nature a cumbersome bulk, be brought to a snappy 'present'? There will be no dashing bayonet charges to fill with enthusiasm the soldier whose function it is to squat behind a machine gun and squirt bullets at the enemy. Drill will have lost its attraction."

"Drill, it may be admitted, is not an inherent necessity of war. But the pomp and splendor of which drill is a significant item, we submit, are essentials to militarism. Without them its true inwardness of savagery and inhumanity is too apparent for a people to stomach. And without national approval militarism is not."

PROS AND CONS.

From now on we will hear much as to whether the university can exist on the present appropriation or not. It will be a doubtful question in the minds of the "educators," how they can continue to expand and infuse scientific ideas at the meagre stipend the state has allowed them for the next two years. From a good common sense point of view they will do very nicely. One of the efficiency bulletins issued in the interest of the taxpayers, the following pungent facts are exposed to public view and worth consideration.

The question of whether the University of Wisconsin will be crippled by reason of the fact that the legislature has cut down by $570,000 the appropriations which it asked for the coming two years is discussed in the current bulletin of the Efficiency Bureau.

At every session, says the bulletin, the legislature is told that the increase in students in the regular course will be about ten per cent a year. In 1911 the legislature received this assurance. The increase, therefore, should have been about 900 for the two years of 1911-12 and 1912-13. It actually was 113, as is shown by university reports. Of these only thirty-six came from Wisconsin. More than seven hundred students who never came were provided for in the increase voted. Increase in allowance was made again in 1913 for a similar estimated increase in students. There is today, and has been since 1912, provision in the operating expense for seven hundred students who never came.

This is a candid exposure of the way in which the university lobby, headed by President Van Hise, has "worked" the legislature at session after session. The element of humor is not lacking, for it is droll to see sheer effrontery repeatedly succeed; but there would be more ability on the part of Wisconsin taxpayers to relish the humor if they were not its ultimate victims. Their enthusiasm for higher education and their pride in the University of Wisconsin do not reconcile them to the biennially repeated jocularities of the management that spends unnecessary amounts with nonchalant recklessness and contrives that the cruelly overburdened taxpayers shall foot the bill. Will the university, with more money for the next two years than was voted to it two years ago, be obliged to forego desirable activities? Will it be crippled? Or will it be benefited, by reason of the fact that its management, obliged for once to consider whether this or that suggested experiment would be worth what it would cost, confines itself to what obviously is worth while? The people of Wisconsin have no reason to fear that any harm will come to "the institution on the hill" during the next two years.

DEMOCRATIC REVISION.

Quiet but active preparations are being made by the democratic leaders in congress to revise the Underwood tariff law, which they appreciate, although they will not admit it, is a hopeless failure both as a protection measure and as a revenue producer. The excuse given for revising the more radical reductions made by the Underwood law will be the need of increased revenue. The deficit for this fiscal year beginning July 1st, exclusive of expenditures for the Panama canal, is already $19,500,000, as against a deficit of $800,000 for the same period last year. It is perfectly evident to economists that only the European war has saved this country from the direst financial conditions, and that had the millions of men now slain or fighting on the battlefields of Europe continued in European factories and on European farms, at the wages which customarily prevail there, American labor would have faced starvation because of lack of employment. Sooner or later the terrible conflict must come to an end and the millions of soldiers will return to their normal occupations. Should this country then be found with no protection other than is afforded by the Underwood law, the direct consequences would result. There are some intelligent democrats who deplore that their party abolished the tariff board, which, had it continued its labors, would now be in a position intelligently to advise the democratic leaders what tariff changes should be made, a suggestion which few democrats are well informed on which no two can agree. As soon as congress meets Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania, will introduce a comprehensive tariff bill which may serve as a guide to the democrats in framing the necessary legislation.

This talk about southern chivalry and defense of the fair name of woman is all popycock. Stop to consider that a goodly portion of the population of the entire south is both ignorant and lazy, and usually both.

It might be suggested to some of the European generals that this poison ivy entanglement planted by persons owning swimming holes has proven most effective when tried out in this country.

Georgia has jumped into the lime-light with a suddenness that precludes the possibility of the European war being given first column on first page these days.

Although there are but fifteen Texan rangers they appear to be a whole army in themselves, and the majority of them are captains, to say the least.

Milwaukee wants some notoriety during a dull summer so it advertises a brewers' war. Something must be done to create a market for their wares.

Haiti, Carranza, Georgia or the weather always furnish a topic for conversation when tired of discussing the European situation.

The Balkans doubtless feel they are most important just at present with war clouds hovering over them like a thunder storm in the distance.

Mary Smith, the ten thousand dollar hired girl, is certainly boosting the back to the soil movement.

Really this idea of working during the month of August is a violation of the vacation period.

BADGER FARMERS TO MEET BUSINESS MEN

TOUR COUNTY FRIDAY

JANESVILLE AND BELOIT GATIONS TO MEET PICK OF STATE FARMERS TONIGHT.

Local Party Leaves on 7 O'clock Car for Beloit Country Club, Scene of Meeting—All Invited.

A hundred Janesville business men, it is expected, will leave the seven o'clock interurban car tonight for the Beloit Country club, where the joint meeting of the Beloit and Janesville business men and the pick of the Wisconsin farm management contest last year together with other state men, will be held.

The report comes from Beloit that over a hundred business and commercial men of that city will attend the big session to help entertain the farmers, successful in carrying off the honors in the 1914 contest. Secretary McDowell of the Commercial club invites every business man in the city to attend this meeting and to be on hand when the seven o'clock car leaves this evening.

The delegation of forty, which will arrive this afternoon from Monroe to take dinner in the city before departing for Beloit on the 5:20 train. At least a hundred of the fifty-two men who commenced the tour at Top of Lake will be here, and will attend the meeting tonight. State farm management winners for 1914, university instructors and government agricultural officials make up the party.

Tour County Friday.

It is the desire of Secretary McDowell that as many car owners as can, on hand Friday morning at seven o'clock, to aid in conveying the party throughout the county for inspection trip to the farms, occupied by the successful contestants. The party will go from here to Beloit, from where the county will depart, and will attend the meeting tonight.

WOMAN'S PAGE

BY RUTH E. CAMERON

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH HEAVEN?

If I were a member of a liberal sect I should preach on that topic—'What's the matter with Heaven?' The other day I heard a little boy ask his mother if there would be fireworks in Heaven.

"Yes," she said, "and Oh, such beautiful ones! The rockets have a thousand stars, and the red lights last for hours and the flower-pots grow roses and poppies and lilies in pink and silver and gold and crimson fire, a whole flower garden of fire flowers."

The little boy's eyes shone. "It must be lovely!" he sighed wistfully. His aunt, a prim, conventional person, drew his mother aside. "Lilla," she said, "I am surprised at you giving the child such an idea of Heaven."

Making Heaven stand for the Most Beautiful. "Is it a less beautiful idea than a city of blazing gold streets where everyone sits around playing harps?" she asked. "I told him something he could understand and something that appealed to his present idea of the beautiful. As his mind grows I shall tell him other things and I shall always try to make Heaven stand for something surpassingly beautiful and wonderful in the highest way he is capable of appreciating."

The conventional aunt was plainly shocked. That's what's the matter with Heaven—that so many people are shocked at the idea of thinking of it as anything but a city of gold streets and harp playing, a goody goody sort of place, and that so few people are honestly attracted by that conception.

"Not A Man Any Woman Would Have." "Women are there," Agnes Repplier quotes a woman saying in description of this idea of Heaven, "and some men, but not a man whom any woman would have." We can't see the reason for this. Heaven even even we laugh at the frank expression of it. Now what kind of an ideal is that to try to make flesh and blood, men and women yearn for?

One's highest conception of the beautiful, one's finest ideals and aspirations, one's purest longings for peace and happiness ought to have expression in one's ideal of Heaven. If you set up any rigid ideal for everyone you make that impossible.

My Own Ideal. Personally I dislike cities and any childlike yearnings I might have felt towards Heaven were stifled by the golden city ideal. One day when I was reading in Tennyson's "Passing of Arthur" the beautiful lines:

"I am going a long way
To the island-valley of Avalon,
(For all my mind is clouded with a doubt)—
To the island-valley of Avalon,
Where falls not hail, or rain, or any snow,
Nor ever wind blows loudly; but it lies
Deep-meadowed, happy, fair, with orchard lawns
And bowery hollows crowned with summer sea
Where I will heal me of my grievous wound."

Suddenly it came over me, 'Viny, that's Heaven!' and I can't tell you what a different feeling it gave me about death.

"A place where you want to go what's right?" was the wistful ideal of an impulsive little friend of mine. Not so bad an ideal, is it?

I know some of my more conservative reader friends are calling all this irrelevant. Let me tell you something, folks. Some of the sweetest, solemnest thoughts I have ever had came to me when I was brooding over this matter. Is that irrelevant?

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Though it was late when the train from Kansas City passed through Casey, a large crowd was collected around the oil well. Men on horseback and in automobiles were passing in and out of the crowd.

Standing in the crowd were a number of men, some of whom were passing from hand to hand and under each man's hand were a number of samples of shale. If there were any indications of oil, Dick said, he would have a home and a car. While the engine took on water, Dick and his mother sat by the open car windows listening to the fragments of high-voiced conversation that floated to them.

"This would be a good time to get rid of your stock," she said with a scornful toss of her head toward the excited group.

"Yes, I could break even tonight, perhaps a little better." Just then the train began to move.

"I wish you were well out of it. Even if they should strike oil, with a knife to the hilt, the concern you would never realize anything on your investment. If there is a good flow of oil in this well, he'll be able to cover up his tracks, for it will be impossible to stir people up to act."

Dick sat with his head bowed on his hand. The day's adventures had depressed him.

It was nearly one o'clock in the morning before Dick turned the key in his own door and let them into the house. It smelled stuffy and hot from being closed all the July day.

"Now, mother, do try to sleep late in the morning. This has been a wearying day and I can get my cup of coffee and toast all right. Nell has me well trained."

"Fish!" Mrs. Morton blew a gusty breath through closed lips. "I'd look well lying in bed and letting you get on your feet. I never did such a thing in my life and I'm too old to begin."

Breakfast was on the table at the usual time. Nothing could interfere with the clock-like regularity of Mrs. Morton's rising.

"If you have time before your train goes, walk over and see the best sugar factory. It's immense; a great thing for Fairport," said Dick at parting.

After the dishes were washed and put away and the house in perfect order, she closed and fastened the windows, let herself out and locked the door. As she stepped near her car, she decided to take the key to Dick instead of secreting it under the door mat as usual.

"I'll go over to the factory with you," said Dick. When she gave him the key, "That must be Jayne's wife in the touring car," he continued as they approached the nearly completed building swarming with laborers.

"That woman with the brass hair who is acting as a rack for the display of dry goods?" asked the old lady.

"The same. She is no Fairport product. Nell will be disappointed; she hoped this family would be a social asset." Mrs. Morton was staring disapprovingly at the highly colored woman in the machine near her.

"That large man in his shirt-sleeves is Mr. Jaynes. He's a white-soiled, comfortable sort." They had stopped near the touring car and Mr. Jaynes came forward to speak to Dick.

"Good morning! Well, work is going on with a swing here. I hope to have enough machinery set up in one morning to take care of all the wells raised this summer. The farmers can see then that it will pay to make a specialty of this thing next year."

"Mother, this is Mr. Jaynes. As you are a farmer's wife, this subject will interest you," said Dick, presenting his mother.

"Dear Mrs. Thompson: My husband died four years ago. I am twenty-four and have a little girl seven years old. I am in poor health and not able to make a living for my child and myself.

I work hard in people's kitchens for only three dollars a week and now my child is old enough to go to school, which will take a lot of clothes and shoes. I need a good education to help take care of my child. I have been writing to a friend for three years and would like to join the navy for four years, and so in a now you will have to pay the price,

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of fifteen and would like to go to high school very much. Now, my father says it does a child no good. But I think with a little training he would let me go. If I were not able to go for all four years would you advise me to go for one year anyway? Also, is there any fun in going to high school? My father thinks about the cost. Does it cost much more than the cost of a good dress? Do you have to have many clothes?

A high school education will give you a broader outlook on life and enable you to earn a better living. There will be pleasure in your relationship with your classmates and instructors, in the class spirit and school activities, and in much of the work itself. It is not necessary to wear any better clothes than you wore at grammar school. Have a talk with the high school principal. He may be able to furnish you some of the books you wish. They will be very cheap. If you wish it, I am sure he will influence in getting him to let you go to school. By all means go, if only for a year. The better your education, the more chance you will have in life.

Household Hints

It takes new potatoes at least twenty minutes to boil soft. Just add a pinch of baking soda the size of a pea to hurry cooking.

Ice Saving—Make a wooden pad half-inch thick (using an old belt) and lay it on ice chamber. Insert pad in case, pin it at open edge. Place this pad on top of the fresh cake of ice, thereby keeping away from the ice the down draft of warm air, which is the principal cause of melting. Paraffin case keeps the pad from coming in contact with the ice. Same pad can be used for one season with fresh paraffin covers. This cuts ice bill in two.

To Clean White Felt Hat—Take half pint gasoline and add wheat flour until mixture appears dry. Brush hat well with mixture with the hands, then shake hat well and brush thoroughly with a clean clothes brush. If not sufficiently clean and white, repeat. Hang hat in a well-ventilated room. The gasoline has evaporated. One will be pleased with the results.

For Gapes in Chickens—Always have a thin layer of turpentine on chickens drinking water and see that they get no other water to drink.

Red Ants—Along the cracks and door-sills where ants are thought to come in, wash with turpentine. Does not take paint off and will banish pests instantly.

CANNING AND PRESERVING.

To Can Corn—To eight pints of corn cut from cob, put one-half pint sugar, one-half pint salt, one pint water; boil fifteen minutes, then seal. Be sure to have lid on jar. Soak corn two hours before using.

Corn Sauce—Twelve ears sweet corn cut from cob two heads cabbage, chopped fine, one teaspoon each of salt, pepper, vinegar, mustard and celery seed, one quart vinegar, one pint sugar, salt to taste. Cook, put in cans and seal.

To Can Beans—To one-half gallon of beans, add one quart of water, add one scant cup salt, one-fourth cup good cider vinegar; boil twenty minutes, then can. Soak over night before using.

BABY'S MILK. No bottle baby can thrive during hot weather on milk that is not kept on ice. If there is no refrigerator, hand, take to wooden boxes one about three feet square, the other five or six inches small every way. Place the smaller box in the larger one and fill the space between them, bottom and sides, with sawdust.

In the center of the smaller box keep a four-quart tin or covered kettle in which two or three cents' worth of ice may be kept and placed in the sawdust. The box can be used by small families as a refrigerator.

Painting the outer box improves the appearance. Hinge the lid to close perfectly and line it with a layer of newspaper. The box can be used by small families as a refrigerator.

THE TABLE. Devil's Crab—Put crabs into boiling water containing one tablespoon salt and a little vinegar. Boil tea to fifteen minutes, or until they turn red; then cool, and remove the spongy substance and the gills. Peel the lower part of shell. Pick from shell the meat which remains, and to each cupful of crab meat allow two tablespoons melted butter, two tablespoons cream, yolks of one or two eggs, one teaspoon minced parsley, one-half teaspoon lemon juice, salt and pepper to taste. If it seems dry, moisten with a little milk. Wash crabs, trim into shape and heap with the mixture. Sprinkle with dry bread crumbs mixed with a little melted butter; brown in a moderate oven.

Peas Turky Salad—Boil salted cooked peas, string beans, peas, beets, lima beans, cauliflower, asparagus and shredded raw cabbage—any or all—and serve very cold with lettuce with salad dressing. Salad Dressing—Mix three teaspoons sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon flour, one teaspoon mustard; add one egg and mix well, then one-half cup milk, and lastly one-half cup oil. When all is thoroughly mixed put over medium fire, stirring constantly to prevent lumping, or cook in a double boiler.

SISTER HANNAH FINDS WORLD IMPROUS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Denver, Colo., Aug. 19.—"This world is coming to a dreadful state," Sister Hannah has been heard to say. She is a parish visitor at St. Mark's, she is one of the best known figures in Denver.

Comparing the times with a half century ago, Sister Hannah said: "It's harder to get people to church today than it was fifty years ago. People now don't want religion, but pleasure."

"Fifty years ago everyone went to church as a duty and a pleasure. Today most men consider themselves married if they attend church three times on Sunday and read Sunday school books between services. Today the majority go to church three times a Sunday."

"Fifty years ago mission workers did real work. Today they do it via the pink tea route."

"Is it suitable for Sunday? was the question that was put to every proposed action for that fifty years ago. Is it suitable to my pleasure? is the question we substitute today."

"Today women have to grow old in my time. They enjoyed old age as an old woman."

"Fifty years ago we had the most simple and sensible dresses. Today it doesn't matter whether you wear a dress or not. The less you have on the better."

"In my girlhood, I can remember how the street in front of my house was thronged Sunday with crowds going to and from church. Today the crowds go to the movies."

"I've often heard of the days when a man was not allowed to kiss a wife on Sunday. Now we are on the rebound. Today the Sunday attraction is the picture show, the baseball game, the automobile and God does not figure in the plans at all."

Woman Leader in Japan Seeks Betterment of Her Sex

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Tokio, Aug. 19.—The woman most talked of in Japan, excepting only the Empress, is Mrs. Akiko Yosano, poetess, essayist, preacher to the "common people" and leader of the dramatic Japanese movement to acquire greater rights for womanhood. Both Mrs. Yosano and her accomplished husband are "dreamers" (they call it that themselves) but they are writing every day about life, in such a simple and practical way that even the least educated and simplest minds understand. Mrs. Yosano's writing appears in newspapers and magazines through Japan. Her extraordinary versatility is evidenced by her writing classical verse at one moment, insisting on woman's freedom the next and following that with an article on bad manners in street cars.

In a tiny Japanese house tucked away in the heart of the great Oriental metropolis where this poetess and apostle of woman's rights carries on her work, Mrs. Yosano, who is the wife of the Associated Press. The thirde of the bell was answered by a young Japanese maid, who prostrated herself on both knees, in Japanese fashion, and then, after a moment's hesitation, removed his shoes, the correspondent was escorted to a small reception room upstairs.

Mrs. Yosano came in, accompanied by her husband and by Prof. H. V. Vaid, of the Imperial University who acted as interpreter. The poetess was dressed in a simple blue kimono. Her black hair was coiled around her head, and she wore a white headscarf. She was smiling and friendly, and she extended her hand in formal greeting.

The impression of Parisian atmosphere in the pictures and furnishings of the room was not at all surprising. Mrs. Yosano explained that with her husband she had spent some years in Paris and had not only lived in the Latin quarter but also in the historic district of the Marais. Her husband had gone to Paris to study a new school of poetry and she as his disciple had followed him there. With fervor they had hung themselves into the art life of the city, and Mrs. Yosano had come back first to Tokyo and began to write. For a considerable time she devoted herself to writing of love and her "Songs of Love" were printed throughout Japan.

She quickly developed a taste for writing upon the practical problems of her fellow women and it is in this field of effort particularly that she has come to be known as a national figure. She has been a leader in the Japanese movement which is inaugurated for the betterment of the woman of Nippon.

The universities of Japan with one exception are not opened to women and the first practical step which should be taken for the emancipation of women in her country she believes is to open at once the gates of all universities and thus give to women the opportunity for a higher education and self-development.

"I have read somewhere that in America and Europe the economic independence which is our women's lot has caused a certain loss of charm and feminine attractiveness," she said, "but I do not fear such a thing here."

She recalled the doctrine of Confucius which gives to women the inferior place and alluded to the proverb on that subject that is printed today in almost every Japanese schoolbook. It concerns the ideal Chinese idea that when woman becomes too active—literally, when the woman talks too much—the household falls. Man is the fountain-head and so the woman should be placed reverting. The milk bottle can be used in this.

Mrs. Yosano did not agree that the predicted evil would follow greater freedom for women. But she wanted Japanese women to be given the fighting chance. She wanted some sort of equality. She scarcely believed that the women were ready for suffrage. That might come later. Meantime there were so many other things that were just and must be had.

Curious Fish in Wisconsin Waters

VI. The Silver Lamprey and His Kin. Madison, Wis., Aug. 18.—The lowest of all fish are the lampreys, all like forms, but not at all related to eels. They occur only in colder water, both salt and fresh, some salt water lampreys entering fresh waters to deposit eggs. Some of the marine lampreys are edible, are indeed considered delicacies among nations that know the worth of fish as food, which category is a new form in the upper Mississippi river, is one of the worst. Like all lampreys, this one has no jaws; his mouth is round, and like a sucker, and is surrounded by several cirruses or feelers and horny teeth. His prey is chiefly fishes that are without scales, such as paddlefish and bullheads, but those with scales do not entirely escape his ravages.

With his sucker-like mouth he attaches himself to the victim. Then by a rasping movement of the teeth a hole is soon cut through the skin, and upon the blood thus drawn the lamprey makes his meal. When filled he drops on, leaving the wound to fester, or to be covered with a fungus growth with fatal results. Paddlefish are especially annoyed in this way, being often attacked by many lampreys at one time. The zoological museum contains a jar with over twenty fine specimens of silver lampreys all taken at one time from one fish. Paddlefish often jump high out of the water in trying to escape from these tormentors.

Another form of lampreys occurs in some of our brooks. So far as known this is not harmful, and it is particularly interesting from the fact that it spends most of its life, several years, as a larva buried in the sand. As an adult it lives only four or five months, dying shortly after having deposited its eggs.

Of the breeding habits of our silver lamprey we know nothing whatever, and it may be as some one has suggested, that they are only the young of the large marine lamprey of our Atlantic coast.

Hogfishes are marine forms closely related to lampreys, but blind, which does not prevent them from boring their way into fishes caught in nets, and devouring the entire fish except the skin. Many a fisherman has switched some particularly fine looking fish coming up in his net or on his trawl line, only to find as it reached the surface, that it was a mere skin, from which poured a procession of well-fed hogfishes.

GERMANS EXPECTING GREAT WINE SEASON

Weather Had Furthered the Prospects of a Large Yield in Vineyards—Prisoners Put to Work.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Berlin, Aug. 18.—Unless the late summer and autumn bring some extraordinarily unfavorable weather, the year 1915 promises to be remarkable for the production of German wines. Not for twenty years have the prospects along the Rhine, Moselle, and Saar been so glowing, and it looks as if the 1915 vintage will come to displace honors with the famous "1898er," the best vintage Germany has had in many a decade.

The 1911 vintage was much above the average, but with this exception the years since 1898 have been called thin and acidulous. Wines of the 1911 vintage are naturally scarce and dear, so it is high time in the interests of both the wine growers and wine lovers, that another banner vintage should come along.

The long drouth this year in Germany was particularly favorable for the vineyardists. This dryness and the vineyardists not only furthered the development of the grapes but also presented conditions highly unfavorable to the development of various diseases and insect enemies of the vine. The latter circumstances were particularly fortunate this year in view of the reduced force of laborers available for the care of the vineyards.

At this writing the crop is nearly a month further advanced than ordinarily. Hence, when the grapes become ripe and the police officials close the vineyards even against the owners, to prevent gathering before the crop becomes "edelfeiz" (literally, "noble-ripe"), the berries will have a much longer frost-free period than usual in which to develop those qualities necessary for high-grade wines. One result will be that the 1915 vintage will produce an unusually high percentage of "edelfeiz" wine, that is, wines to which no sugar needs be added.

Not only does the quality promise to be the best since 1898, but the quantity will be equally satisfactory. For the gathering of this bumper crop there are fortunately available thousands of war prisoners from the wine districts of France, skilled help offering a complete substitute for the German laborers at the front.

The war has caused much less disturbance of conditions in the wine trade than might have been expected. In the first few weeks the consumption fell off greatly, but conditions rapidly improved and many of the leading wine dealers declare that they are doing as large a business as in normal years. In only one respect are conditions changed. While the wine drinkers are drinking as much wine as usual, they are drinking cheaper brands. The result is that the so-called "small wines" are growing scarce. There is still a fair amount of Bordeaux on hand, but the cheaper Rhines and Moselles are near exhaustion, and the German red wines are practically all gone. As a result, the prices of these cheaper wines are just now beginning to rise. Of the better grade wines, however, there is no lack and the prices have not been raised. This is particularly true of Bordeaux, of which, according to competent authorities, Germany possesses an adequate supply for at least two years. There are also large supplies of port on hand. Comparatively little Italian wine is drunk in Germany. Its lack this year will be chiefly felt in Austria and in certain districts of Southern Germany, which ordinarily imported considerable quantities of Italian clarets for mixing with domestic wines. In view, however, of the promised big domestic yield, the want of these imported wines will not be so seriously felt as would be the case in an average year.

"No, but equally reliable; one of Ned Cowan's mountaineers. Captain Fox is a prisoner, wounded, and his men mostly dead."

A moment she rested unknowingly against my arm, her face covered with her hands. There was that in the man's words and manner which convinced her that he spoke the truth. The face she finally lifted was white and drawn. The girl had changed to a woman. She stood erect, alone, one hand grasping the back of a chair.

"You say my father is dead—killed," she said, in steady, clear voice. "But be that one or the other, you never came here tonight, through this storm, to bring me such a message alone. Who sent you, Parson Nichols? What devilry is on foot?"

"My dear young lady," he began smoothly, spreading his hands deprecatingly. "Be charitable, and just. I realize that in the first shock of this suddenly learning of your father's demise, you naturally speak harshly. With me the past is forgotten, blotted out, covered with the mantle of Christian charity. I felt it my duty to break to you this sad news in all possible tenderness."

"And you had no other object?"

"Certainly not; what other could I possibly have had?"

The man lied, and I knew it; the suave, soft tones of his voice irritated me. The girl stood motionless, silent, her breath coming in sobs. Then she turned her head slightly, and her eyes met mine. The pitiful appeal in her depths was all I needed. With a grim feeling of delight, I took a step forward, and the muzzle of my revolver touched his breast.

"Now, Mister Preacherman," I said shortly, "we'll have done with this playacting. Not a move!"

CHAPTER VIII.

The Jaws of the Trap.

If eyes alone possessed the power to kill, his would have done the deed, but the face with which I confronted him was sufficiently grim to make him realize the danger of a movement. He gave back a step, but my revolver pressed his side.

"Don't try anything with me, Nichols," I said sternly, "you are either going to talk, or die. I'll give you one chance, and one only. I despise your kind, and will kill you with pleasure. Now answer me—who told you of Major Harwood's death?"

"I have said already; the message was brought to Lewisburg by one of Ned Cowan's men."

"Yes, so you did; but you never received it at Lewisburg. Oh, yes, I know something myself. The fact is you never came here tonight from Lewisburg. Now are you ready to talk to me? Oh! you are! Very well, who sent you—Cowan?"

I ran my gun muzzle hard into his ribs, and he nodded sullenly, his lips drawn back in a snarl. All the soft palaver had vanished, and he had become a cowed brute.

"I thought so; you belong yourself to the Cowan gang?"

"Not—not in their deeds of blood and violence," he protested. "The calls of my church compel me to minister to your scattered flock—"

"Never mind that kind of palaver, Nichols. Now what did he send you for?"

"I waited, my eyes on his. I could not see the girl, and dare not avert my gaze so much as an instant. The man wet his lips, as if they were parched, and I could perceive the nervous movement of his throat."

"I don't know."

"Don't know what?—this is my last call!"

"I don't know whether he is coming, or not," he blurted out reluctantly.

"He was hurt in the fight."

"And if he cannot come himself he means to send others. What for? What does he want of the girl?"

My hammer clicked, and the man cringing back, read the stern meaning of my face. A terrible suspicion surged over me, and I was ready to kill. He knew his life hung by a hair.

"To—marry her," the words barely audible. "Not old Ned—his son, Anse."

I heard the startled exclamation of the girl behind me.

"Anse Cowan!" she cried, her voice full of undisguised horror. "Marry me to that low brute, did he ever imagine I would consent—ever even look at him?"

I touched her with my hand in restraint, the revolver still at the preacher's heart. The whole foul plot lay exposed in my mind.

"There was no intention of asking your consent, Miss Harwood," I said, satisfied that she should know all, and face the truth. "There is a reason for this desperate act which I do not wholly fathom, but it has to do with the property here, and the feud between Cowan and your father. If Major Harwood be dead, as this man reports, you are the sole heir, and old Ned has conceived the idea of marrying you by force to his son. He has learned you are here alone, and unprotected, and in this creature of his—this canting preacher—he has found a fit tool ready at hand to do his dirty work. Is that it, Nichols?"

He muttered something inaudible.

"Answer, you black-hearted cur; you have confessed too much to hide anything now. How many are coming with Anse Cowan?"

"Maybe a half dozen of the boys. I don't know; they were talking about it when I left, and thought it was going to be a great lark."

"Well, it is; you are finding that out already. When were they to be here?" I shook him to loosen his lagging tongue.

"They were to ride out an hour after I did."

I threw the wretch back into the chair before the fire, but held him still cowering before the point of my revolver. The dog had told us all he knew, and there was a snarl to his thin lips, drawn back and exposing his yellow teeth, showing that his only thought now was revenge. Any moment that gang of ruffians might appear, and I was helpless there alone to contend against them. I dared not move, dared not avert my gaze from the preacher; there was hatred and treachery in the depths of his eyes.

"Is there a lock on the parlor door leading into the hall?" I asked.

"A bolt—yes."

"Please close and bolt it, and then come back here."

I heard her turn and cross the room; caught the sound as she shot the bolt, and her light step again on the floor.

"Now, something to tie this man with. We must be quick—the tablecloth will do! Sweep that clutter of dishes on to the floor. Good! Now out me the cord from that picture."

I had no thought of glancing about; I can scarcely conceive even now that I did, yet my eyes must have wandered an instant, for Nichols had the wrist of my pistol hand in his grip, and the revolver went spinning across the floor. There was a moment of fierce, breathless struggle. The fellow possessed no skill, but the wiry strength of a tiger. I found his eyes with my fist, and dazed, his hands released their grip, and I broke loose, my throat livid from his finger marks.

The flap of a gray skirt touched my face, and a blow fell—the man went limp under me, his head upheld by the angle of the wall. I struggled to my knees, still staring at him, uncertain as to what had actually occurred, struggling for breath. The girl stood over me, white-faced, her eyes wide open with horror, the remnant of the teapot in her hand. Suddenly her hands covered her eyes, the fragment of crockery falling noisily to the floor. "I—I struck him," she sobbed, unnerved. "I—I have killed him!"

"No such good luck," I answered, recovering myself, and grasping her hands, so that I could look into her eyes. "The man is not dead—only stunned by the blow. He will be conscious in a minute. Do not become frightened; you did right, and we have no time to lose. You have a horse somewhere?"

She hesitated, her hands still held in mine unconsciously.

"You—you mean I am to ride for Lewisburg—and—and you?"

"Oh, I must do the best I can on foot. We'll keep together as long as possible. Go, and hurry. Get a wrap, and your revolver."

She slipped out of the room, and up the stairs, her light steps making no sound on the soft carpet. I bent over Nichols, and as I touched him he stirred, and opened his eyes, staring up into my face.

"Don't hit me!" he whined. "I'm no friend of Anse Cowan."

"So you've had enough! Then take orders from me."

I gathered in the picture cord the girl had dropped on the floor. His wrists were big and knotted, and I drew the cord tight enough to make the fellow wince, despite his groans and pretense at severe suffering.

"Go up the stairs," I commanded sternly, "and keep close to the wall. Oh, you can walk all right, my friend, and I advise you to do as I say—you see this gun?"

The scowl on his face was malignant, and his eyes glowed like coals, but he moved on ahead of me across the hall, and up the carpeted steps.

The lamp held high above my head in one hand, sent a stream of light through the black shadows, and revealed his every movement. At the head of the stairs the girl suddenly appeared, her face showing white in the glow of the lamp. A brown cape, fastened closely at the throat, enveloped her figure, and a cap was drawn down over her hair.

"What is it?" she questioned swiftly. "Is there any room up here windowless, and with a door that can be locked?"

She glanced about, uncertain.

"Why—oh, yes! there is a large closet off my room."

"Turn to the right, Nichols; into that room, where the light is burning. Oh, yes, you will! Kindly open the closet door, Miss Harwood. Don't stand growling there. Get in, I say!"

He was so slow, that I thrust him roughly through the opening, and closed and locked the door. The girl had placed the lamp on a table, and, as I turned, her eyes met mine.

"Suppose they—they fail to come?" she questioned. "He could not get out; he might die in there."

"Little danger of their not coming. Anyhow I prefer risking that fellow's life rather than yours. Is he really a preacher?"

"Yes; he has a church at the Cross-roads. I heard him preach at a camp meeting. He was here before when Tom's wife died, and conducted the funeral."

"Tom? One of the servants?"

"Yes, my father's body servant. He accompanied him to the army." The tears rushed to her eyes, dimming them, and her hand touched my sleeve.

"Oh, lieutenant, do you really suppose he has been killed?"

"We can only hope," I answered, catching my breath quickly. "Nichols may have told that for a purpose—a desire to make you feel helpless and alone. But we cannot stand here and talk. You know the way and can guide me to the door, can you not? It will be safer not to leave the lamp burning."

I blew the light out without waiting for an answer, and took her hand in mine.

"Now you must lead," I said softly. "We will go down the back stairs."

We slipped out into the hall together, her grasp on my fingers warm and confident, and I closed the door of the room behind us. My hand encountered the baluster rail, and she had taken a single step downward, when we heard a voice below, and the crash of what was probably the stock of a rifle on the outer door. A second blow fell, followed by the sound of splintering wood. The voice came sharper, clearer; I could distinguish the words.

"Now, once more, Kelly! There's nothing to be afraid of, man. Break it a foot lower down, so I can reach the key. Where is Anse? Do you know, Jake?"

"He an' Bill are 'round front," some fellow answered hoarsely. "That's a busted window thar. Yer saw that light up stairs didn't yer?"

"Sure—the girls' yere all right, but it don't look as if the preacher was. I reckon he got afeard, an' was waitin' fer us ter show up fast. Here, you, Kelly, git' me a shot on that club."

She shrank back against me, with a little startled cry, and I held her close. We were in the trap, caught between the closing jaws.

At Hartlepool a 12-inch shell went clean through a house, continued its career up the street and went through another house. Each dwelling was occupied by a person of the same name. The signalman who was on the bridge of the British ship which sank the Emden writes: "A shot cut away the port signal halyards, cut through the range finder—about six feet of brass—blew off the range taker's leg, cut a rail off, came through the hammocks lining the inside of the bridge, through the screen and through the ship's awning, which was launched outside the screen, and then burst. One lump of shell hit the deck only a foot away from me (I have the piece), shooting by my head by inches, and another piece hit the deck and then bounced up and through the bridge screen, striking exactly half a pair of binoculars with it. Not bad for one shot, was it?"

I saw many prayer books, watches and buttons with marks of rifle bullets upon them, and other souvenirs treasured as the saviors of men's lives, from which the owners drew various inferences. A dent in a cigarette case or a hole through a pocketbook seems to give rise to graver thoughts than do actual wounds. The British soldier reaches down into the unknown further than people think, and he draws conclusions which cause him to re-lapse into silence as he smokes his pipe over the campfire. The idiosyncrasies of shrapnel and the eccentricities of shot supply him with all kinds of weird inferences, which he weaves into his belief, and the soldier's creed is no mere piece of formalism. It is a real spiritual compass, very different from the ethical value from the markish platitudes of the "pimply pious" who remain at the base and shirk duty and the bring line to distribute tracts of sickly sentiment. The soldier man, when he faces the unknown, is not weighed down by his creed. He rises buoyantly where many of his sectarian superiors would founder in the storms of warfare.—London Globe.

IDIOSYNCRASIES OF SHOT AND SHELL ARE MANY.

Correspondents Tell Remarkable Stories of Scenes They Have Witnessed—Lives Saved by Articles Carried.

In a photograph which comes from the front I see a man has had his hair neatly parted by a bullet in the center with the art and exactitude of a hair-dresser. A visit to the hospitals at the military bases in France made me acquainted with some idiosyncrasies of shrapnel which are well-nigh unbelievable. One man, whose name was Williams or Williamson, I forgot which, had his initial W plainly outlined upon his back by a fragment of shrapnel which finally settled in his boot. The man was very proud of his wound. "I wouldn't have missed that for a quid," he earnestly remarked. It certainly was a distinction. I told this story to one of the king's messengers, a noble and hard-working duke, and he capped it by telling of a case where a trooper mounting his horse was hit with a piece of shell which cut round the top of his trousers like a pair of scissors, dividing the leg part from the body.

At Hartlepool a 12-inch shell went clean through a house, continued its career up the street and went through another house. Each dwelling was occupied by a person of the same name. The signalman who was on the bridge of the British ship which sank the Emden writes: "A shot cut away the port signal halyards, cut through the range finder—about six feet of brass—blew off the range taker's leg, cut a rail off, came through the hammocks lining the inside of the bridge, through the screen and through the ship's awning, which was launched outside the screen, and then burst. Small-Size Tires Made Bigger

Tires 30x3½ — Also 30x3

20% More Capacity
30% More Rubber
In Side Walls
$317,000 Better

$317,000 Better

These improvements will cost us this year $317,000 extra.

Yet this year also brought to Goodyear users an enormous price reduction, making 45 per cent in two years.

Note what Goodyear users get this year on tires in smaller sizes.

We have added 20 per cent to the air capacity. That adds immensely to your riding comfort, combats the blowouts and overloading that came to smaller tires.

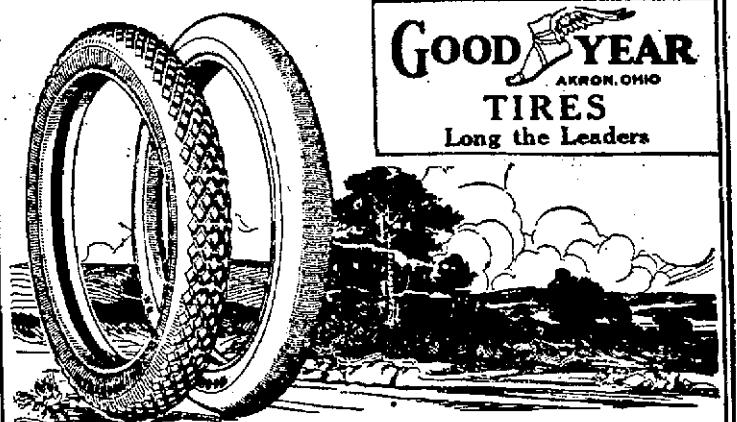

We have added 30 per cent to the rubber in the side walls, where constant bending breaks so many tires.

We have made new molds—changed the whole design—because of newly-discovered ways to add to the tires' endurance.

Note that Goodyear tires, as made before, won top place in Tiredom. Never has another tire won so many users.

It is these tires—proved the best tires built—which we have bettered this year in every way that experts know.

Get these super-tires. Our mammoth output makes this extra value possible. Don't take smaller, thinner tires.

INFLATING A TIRE.

A Way to Test It When There Is No Pressure Gauge Handy.

Time was when every tire manufacturer warned all and sundry to inflate their tires to a high degree of pressure, and more probably than not this was due to the fact that in those days all pumping was done by hand and with very inefficient implements.

The correct thing to do nowadays, of course, is to consult a standard table of requisite pressures, according to the size of the tire and the load to be carried, and to use this in conjunction with a reliable gauge.

But there is also a rough and ready method which is by no means indeterminate if no pressure gauge is handy, and that is to take the car out on to a dry road which is in a bad state of repair and full of holes. Preferably there should be no passengers on the rear seats. If the driving wheels are pumped up too hard the driver will experience a constant sensation of ineffectual skidding, and though he may not actually slip, he will not find the car by any means easy to steer.

This is evidence that the tires are so hard that they are bumping over obstacles instead of absorbing them without leaving the ground.—New York World.

CONTEST DEPARTMENT WINNERS ANNOUNCED

ALLEN B. WEST NAMES FINAL
WINNERS AND TELLS OF VARIOUS CONTESTS.

STUDENTS TOOK PART

Cow Contest Was Perhaps Most Interesting Under Supervision of Mr. West.—Stock Is Judged.

The contests were an interesting feature of the Janesville fair. The first was a stock judging contest in which six classes were considered: 1st, bulls; 2nd, beef cows; 3rd, medium wool sheep; 4th, swine; 5th, draft horses; 6th, dairy cattle. There were four animals in each class, excepting horses, the animals being led out for the purpose of judging by the exhibitors. There were three teams in the contest, each consisting of five boys: Leo Mooney, Capt. Roscoe Korn, Robert Crane, Hector Bleasdale, Carl Beyer; Robert Moore, Capt. Quinn Loomis, Harry Badger, Thomas Cronin, Roland Schenck; Stewart Lamb, Capt. Ralph Morse, Lovel Black, Frank Campbell and Bernard Laughlin.

The correct placing of the stock was given by the regular judge of the stock of the fair, and the awards were made on the basis of the correct placing of the animals and the written reasons for the same. Each member of the team being given a card on which numbers of the animals were placed by the judging in their order of excellence, with the reasons for placing them. These cards were turned over to professor H. C. Seares, of the University of Wisconsin, who made the awards to the boys. The first place was given to the Willowdale team, of which Leo Mooney was captain, the second to a city team of which Robert Moore was captain, and the third to the team of which Stewart Lamb was captain.

The second day of the fair the boys took part in corn and potato judging contests. The judging was done by individuals instead of by teams, each boy being required to judge between several to ten samples of corn and potatoes. The prizes were given to the King and Golden Glow varieties, the awards being made on the basis of the most accurate ranking of the samples. The following won prizes:

1st prize, Ralph Morse.
2nd prize, Leo Mooney.
3rd prize, Roland Schenck.

The potatoes used in the judging contests were taken from the exhibits of the school gardens, the varieties being Early Ohio.

The following are the prize winners: 1st prize, Roland Schenck; 2nd prize, Hector Bleasdale; 3rd prize, Carl Beyer.

The third day much interest was shown in the contests in rope and cord work, which took place in the educational department. A number of boys and one girl entered this contest and tried their skill in making rope halters, long, short and side splices in crowning ropes and in making and naming knots and hitches. The work was judged mainly on the basis of quality, each piece being considered separately, but some consideration was given to the time consumed on each piece.

The winners in this department were as follows:

Making a rope halter—1st, Mark Jones; 2nd, Gladys Morton; and 3rd, Linn Eller.

Making a short splice—1st, Linn Eller; 2nd, Mark Jones; 3rd, Hector Bleasdale.

Making a long splice—1st, Linn Eller; 2nd, Hector Bleasdale; 3rd, Leo Mooney.

Crowning a rope—1st, Linn Eller; 2nd, Mark Jones; 3rd, Gladys Morton.

Making a short splice—1st, Mark Jones; 2nd, Linn Eller; 3rd, Victor Bleasdale.

Tying standard knots—1st, Leo Mooney; 2nd, Linn Eller; 3rd, Gladys Morton.

In all these contests the judging was done by Professor Bewick and Professor James.

But perhaps the most important of all the contests from the educational standpoint was that of the cow contest, where the cows were judged on the basis of their performances at the fair.

Fifteen cows were entered, representing seven different herds and four breeds, as follows: Holstein, Guernsey, Ayrshire and Short Horn.

H. C. Seares of Fond du Lac, secretary of the State Cow Testing association, was secured to take charge of this contest. Blackboards were secured on which were placed each day the number of pounds of milk daily, the average test, the pounds of butter fat and the value of the butter at the latter being figured at 20 cents.

Also the cost of the feed and of production and returns for each one dollar expended for feed.

These daily records attracted considerable attention and were constantly studied by the dairymen in attendance at the fair as the contest progressed.

The awards based on the amount of butter fat produced during the four days' test were as follows: 1st, registered Holstein, owned by J. W. Jones, Milton Junction, producing 63.109 lbs. of butter fat; 2nd, registered Ayrshire, owned by James Finn, 3rd, registered Holstein, owned by D. K. Latta & Sons, Clinton Junction, 4th and 5th, registered Holsteins, owned by J. W. Jones, Milton Junction.

There were some curious and interesting facts shown upon the blackboard. The cost of getting first place in the contest was 107.10 pounds of milk. Eight of the cows produced more milk, the two producing the most milk, 148 and 149 1/2 lbs., failed to secure any prizes.

The profit on $1.00 (one dollar's) worth of feed of the cow that ranked first was $1.08, while for the highest milk it was 39 cents and for the second highest milk 18 cents.

One cow produced one cent profit and another cow gave for $1.00 worth of feed 83 cents, showing a loss of 17 cents for the time of the test.

These plain facts show the necessity of the farmer knowing not only the pounds of milk produced by his cows, but the test of the butter fat and the cost of feed.

AMERICANS BEATING BRITISH ON AUTOS

Yankee Makers With Completed Cars
Appeal to Average Man and Therefore Sell the Machines.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Aug. 18.—British motorcar manufacturers have catered to the rich, the American to the average man, and that is why the British are not able to compete against the American cheap car.

This is the conclusion of a writer in the Westminster Gazette, who puts the case in these words: "I foresaw the trouble that was coming from America, and I knew that we could not hold our own against the enlightened methods of that country. We must make a determined effort to get rid of the effete system which now makes us look rather silly as an automobile producing country in the eyes of our competitors across the Atlantic."

The British manufacturer's appeal has been mainly made to the voluntary, and he has never seriously endeavored to consider the motorcar from the point of view of the common man. The Autocar, a journal devoted to motoring, asks editorially this week what will become of the British motor industry after the war. It points out that every day the war the American manufacturers become stronger and stronger and the European weaker and weaker. Protection is suggested as a remedy. To this the Westminster critic replies:

"The present trouble has not arisen out of free trade, nor can it be wholly cured by protection. It is up to the British firm to make themselves now by throwing overboard all the old-fashioned traditions which are holding them back—to abandon the useless practice of producing to meet models of the past."

The British firm must be selling them naked and bare as is done in innumerable cases, without tires, without body and without the score of things which they know from experience the motorist must have.

The British motor car must be made and sold as a complete thing, self contained and equipped as nearly every American cheap car is equipped.

No American manufacturer of popular priced cars, the writer adds, dreams of consulting the buyer about the size and shape of the body, the kind of lighting plant or self starter, the question of detachable rims and the like. The American turns out a few styles and saves in cost by duplication.

Storages in Northern and Eastern Parts of County Cut Fields of Weed.

Local Farmers' Crops Unhurt.

Within the last five days the northern and eastern parts of the county have been visited by heavy hail storms, which have destroyed much of the hitherto fine tobacco crops. Growers near Center and in the vicinity of Porter, suffering mostly from the hail, the plants being cut badly in those sections. An insurance man passing through here yesterday reported that he had met five claims during the past few days in the vicinity of the town of Center. Corn fields have also been stripped, according to the statements of farmers from these parts of the county.

Local Growers Fortunate.

Local growers and farmers near this city have not been troubled with the storms and report their crops to be in tip top shape. Cutting has commenced on the O. N. Coon farm, east of Janesville, and this grower is more than pleased with his crop. The hail and storm of the 14th and 15th storms seem to have struck just the northern and eastern portion of the county and took an easterly course, after visiting these sections.

A hail storm based over the New England states on Monday, damaging the tobacco crop to the extent of about $100,000. The Connecticut and Massachusetts valleys were both hit by the storm. Hartford, Mass., and Colchester, Avon and the New Britain district of Connecticut were the main sufferers.

Outlook Brighter With Sun.

The return of the sunshine, however, has again brought the farmers' counterpane, for it is not too late to make it a good season. In the real near vicinity.

While some apprehension was felt in this part of the country regarding the 1915 tobacco crop, because of the heavy rains of a couple of weeks ago, this fear is being pretty well dissipated by copious sunshine and perhaps when all the returns are in (and the harvest season is over) old Wisconsin will show up a pretty good crop. It is to be admitted, however, that extraordinary rainfall in the local tobacco belt for the entire year and a half, has retarded the growth of the leaf, not so much in that it has stunted the spread, for rain can hardly do that, but in the sense that it has washed out field and garden fertilizers, has a difficult time of it becoming firmly rooted. Strangely enough, in certain districts that have been comparatively untouched by rain-storms since the 1915 season began there are signs of the crop beginning to spindle out into scraggly, rhizome leaves, which it always does when a drought comes. Cultivation is expected to be stimulated, however, all along the line by some warm, sunny weather throughout the last half of August.

The tobacco growers near Orfordville report that the new fields show the effects of the work of white grub worms, a rare instance. The grubs are evidently cultivating the tobacco habit, and it is to be hoped it makes em sick. Growing tobacco is carried on in enough dangers without this one added. Generally speaking, the fields show remarkable progress, the wet weather having apparently worked little damage, this being the one crop to thrive on the excessive rainfall.

Packers Are Holding.

Dealers are not doing a thing with their old tobacco, they are waiting the outcome of the crop now in the field. Until the fate of the growing crop is more definitely settled, packers will not be very anxious to dispose of their holdings, though market conditions are not promising in the least. Transactions are mainly of a small order variety to meet the urgent needs of manufacturers.

The shipments out of storage reach about 1,200 cases since last report.

COMMITTS SUICIDE AFTER CELEBRATION

Despondent Over Failure to Obtain
Work Leonard Altman, Age 35
Years, Blows His Head Off.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Monroe, Wis., Aug. 19.—Following the dedication of the monument to the pioneers of New Glarus and the seventy-fifth anniversary of Leonard Altman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Casper Altman, who were among the first to settle in that village, committed suicide by shooting himself. His head was blown off and death was instantaneous.

Previous to committing the deed he had been conversing with relatives and friends. Last March he sustained a broken leg in an accident, and since that time he had been brooding over the fact that he was unable to work. It is thought he committed the act while despondent.

Mr. Altman was 35 years of age and was born in New Glarus where he had lived all his life. He had been employed at the condensing factory in that village up to the time of the accident.

Besides his parents, his wife, one son, Casper, 3 years old, one brother and three sisters survive. He was a nephew of Jacob Altman of this city. Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the burial in the New Glarus cemetery.

GREEN COUNTY FARMERS IN
"FARM TO TABLE" MOVE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Monroe, Wis., Aug. 19.—The first step in the "Farm to Table" project has been taken here and the farmers have begun shipping their garden truck and meat direct to the housewives of Chicago by parcel post. When the city women first inaugurated the plan of buying direct of the farmer, they bought only from the farmers in the first "zone" outside the city. The demand for farm products was so great that today practically every farmer who supplies one or two families has reached his capacity.

The buying district has now been extended to the second zone and the farmers of Wisconsin will profit. The only formally required is the listing of the farmer's name with the local postmaster, who forwarded it to the buyers. The list of farm products sent by parcel post to Chicago houses is wide and variegated, including hams and bacon, fresh and salted meats, milk, cheese, butter, eggs, fruits and vegetables.

One Big Fact Not Advertised is the 2 1/2 grains of a harmful drug in the average cup of coffee.

Coffee roasters know that there is caffeine, a subtle, poisonous drug in coffee. But they dodge the issue and talk about flavour. Proof lies in the fact that some coffee concerns have tried, without much success, to rid coffee of its caffeine.

Daily blows of this coffee-drug finally result for most people, in nervousness, headache, heart flutter or some other form of caffeine poisoning.

You may not think coffee hurts you, but to be sure, quit coffee ten days and use the pure food-drink—

LOS ANGELES BEACH RESORTS HAVE A BATHING SUIT WAR; MEN CENSORS INSIST WOMEN SHALL WEAR SKIRTS; BUT THEY WON'T

Fair bathers wearing simple piece suits denounced by censors.

A few inches of cloth more or less is responsible for the most tempestuous war over bathing suits that has ever torn the resorts adjacent to Los Angeles. The opposing factions—the board of censors on one side and the young women who object to wearing skirts in the water on the other—each declares it will be victorious; the neutrals say to date the honors are even.

HIS REASON.
"Why do you always take a pretzel into the barber's with you, Judge?"
"I give it to Tony and he gives me a talkless shave."

ORPHANS IN HOLLAND.

In Some Cities They Are Dressed in Most Grotesque Fashion.

The Dutch differ from the Chinese in announcing to the world the birth of children only in the article displayed.

The Chinamen hang a piece of ginger over the main entrance to the house, while the Hollanders indicate the event by a piece of lace, combining with the lace a pink background for a boy and tinsel for a girl.

The orphans of some of the cities of Holland are quite conspicuous, and especially so when seen on the streets of Amsterdam, dressed in what might be termed half and half clothing.

The east half of a boy's coat, including the sleeve, is red, while the west half is black. The dresses of girls are divided in a similar manner, but are topped off by becoming white caps, which make the young miss look very neat and attractive.

This singular style of dress is said to have been adopted to enable the railroad officials, as well as the authorities, to keep track of them, says the National Geographic Magazine.

As the orphan asylums of Holland have the control of children committed to them until they are of age, the more mature of the unfortunates (wearing these odd garments in public) present a very striking appearance.

Justice to the Old Minister.

There is no more pathetic figure than that of the minister who, having served his church faithfully for many years on a small salary, is left in want in his old age. Certainly the minister, whose life work is devoted to the well-being of his fellow man, is as deserving of a pension as the city official, the teacher, the fireman or railroad employee.—Leslie's.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, August 19, 1875.—More summer like this afternoon—a clear sky and a warm atmosphere.

Blackberries of a very superior quality are for sale by our fruit dealers in large quantities.

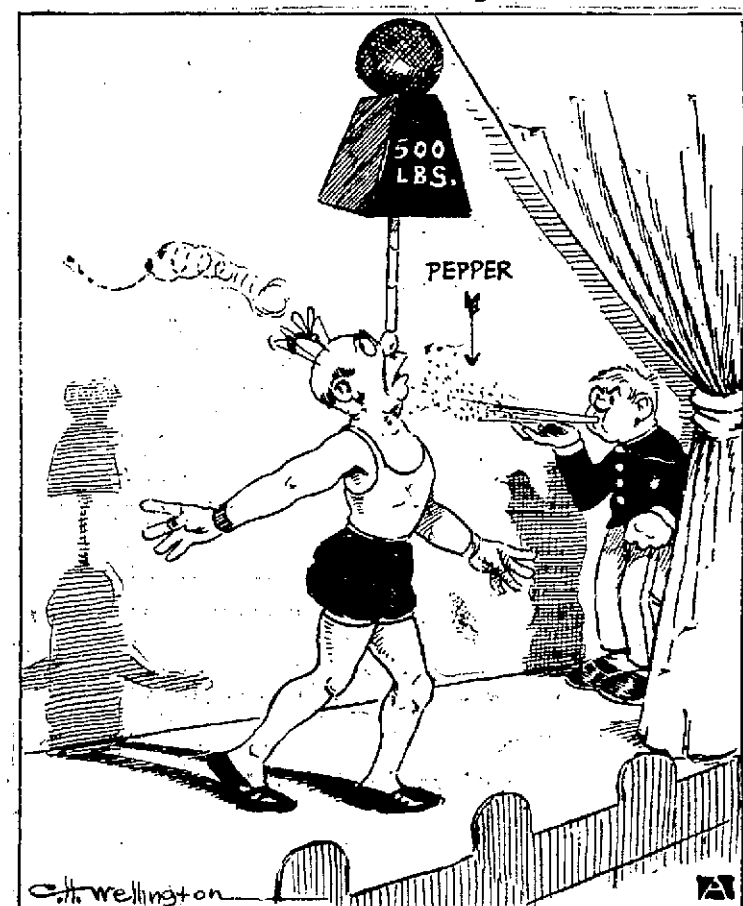

New barley is being brought to the city, for which the round sum of a dollar per bushel is being paid. The quality is first class. No new wheat has yet been brought in.

The common council last night received, though it did not come up for action, a petition about ten yards long, requesting the prohibition of cows from running at large upon the streets. If there is any one thing which is a downright disgrace to a civilized city or village, it is permitting horses and cattle running at large around the streets.

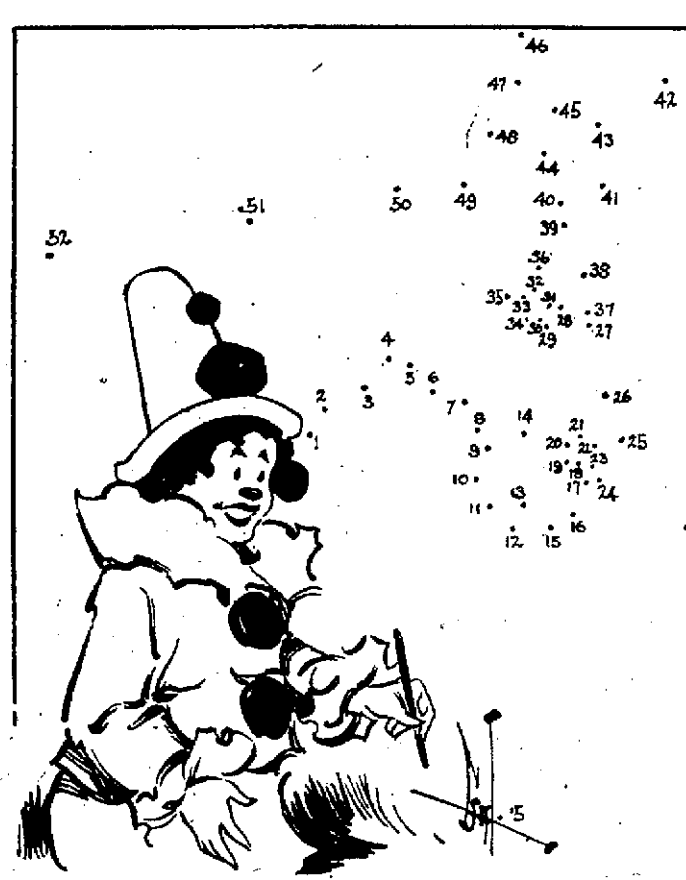

The little cloud of revolution, which lately appeared in Herzegovina, in the Dinaric Alps, near the north-eastern shore of the Adriatic appears to be gathering strength and spreading to the neighboring province of Dalmatia. The troops, which have been sent by the Turkish government to attack these mountaineers appear to be unequal to the task. They refuse to march into the mountains and it may be that these brave men will hold their revolutionary attitude for a long time, as the Circassians once did under their celebrated chief, Schamyl, who defied the whole power of Russia, for years.

Berlin, Aug. 19.—The war office has invited General Meigs of the United States Army to witness the military maneuvers in Silesia next autumn.

ROCK COUNTY FAIR
NOW IN FULL SWING

Huge Crowds Swarm to Evansville to Witness Interesting Races and Rare Exhibits at County Display.

Evansville, Aug. 19.—The best of weather which greeted Tuesday's fair partly accounted for the record attendance on the opening day of the 1915 fair.

Baker Half Peds defeated Magnolia in an interesting baseball game in the afternoon, the score being 10 to 6.

The feature of the game was the home run drive of Monson, scoring three runs. The game stood 6-6 up to the last inning, when the Baker Half Peds scored 4 runs.

The results of the pony race in the afternoon were as follows: James Christensen 1st, Thomas Cain 2nd, Verne Collins 3rd, James Christensen 4th.

After the first appearance of the Zaymo Show Troup on the temporary platform erected downtown, the popularity of the downtown free attraction in the evening was assured. The main streets are especially illuminated for the performances and presented a very attractive appearance, and the large crowd witnessing their acts last night are loud in their praises of the entertainments.

One of the most interesting and unique exhibits on the grounds is a collection of relics and curios. This was gotten together by Mayor Campbell, and is the result of his efforts in this line for the past twenty years. A few of the most interesting articles being wood from a dam constructed by beavers in Colorado; also the tail of one of these animals; a saw-tooth bill fish from the Pacific ocean; and later over 100 years old; a flax hatched used by the early settlers; the hide of an armadillo, from Mexico; a coyote rug from Colorado; a hair over 100 years old, used by the early settlers of Rock county to thresh their grain; a miniature ox yoke; a spear used by Eskimos on the Yukon river in Alaska for spearing seals; an Indian god such as worn by the Pueblo Indians; a star fish from the Pacific ocean; an old fashioned tuning fork; a collection of tomahawks such as used by the Sioux Indians; an old fashioned kettle over 125 years old; a rare collection of old coins from different countries; a Navajo rug made by the Pueblo Indians; a rare collection of bird eggs, among them being an egg of the wild pigeon; a species of bird now extinct but well remembered by the early settlers of this country; a spinning wheel from Scotland over 100 years old; and other one brought from Norway; also a mounted antelope head from Colorado; a pair of horns from South America, measuring 11 inches; a flint lock musket, which was carried by the great grandfather of Albert Gallatin of this city in the battle of Bunker Hill; a flax spinning wheel made in 1790; a reel used by early settlers for reeling yarn and over 100 years old; an old flint axe used in the early 40's; a hoe from North Carolina, such as used by the slaves in the south previous to the war; an Indian bow and arrows used by the natives of Philippine Islands; a coconut and husk; a stone such as Indians used for grinding corn; two stone axes inlaid with silver and made by the Indians; an octopus or devil which is most dreaded by submarine divers; a sun dial from Italy; totum poles made by the Alaskan Indians; wooden mortar used by early settlers for grinding coffee; a broad axe, such as used by the pioneer settlers of Wisconsin; a fine collection of Indian arrow heads; a powder horn; stone mortar and pestle used by the Pueblo Indians for grinding corn; a tarantula or trap door spider with nest, with a self shutting door; a large collection of buffalo horns, and a beautiful collection of corals from the island in the Pacific are other features of this exhibit. Mr. Campbell has been urged by the secretaries of many fairs who have seen this display, which represents so many years of effort on his part, to exhibit at some of their fairs.

Another exhibit which is attracting unusual attention is the large display of farm machinery of all kinds, and traction engines. This is the largest display of this kind ever seen on the fair grounds and is due to the untiring efforts of G. C. Roberts, superintendent of this department. In connection with this large display the fair management has made arrangements for a special traction engine plowing demonstration Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

The final checking of the committee books yesterday made confirmation of the great increase in the number of entries in every department. It was also necessary for a number of exhibitors to leave, owing to lack of space. In the department of youths and educational this fact was very much in evidence, it being impossible to make a complete display of this exhibit until a portion of it had been judged, when the rest was arranged. Of unusual interest is the exhibit of the youthful culinary experts, who have made an exceedingly large display.

Superintendent Wilder of the poultry department was compelled to erect another tent to care for the extremely large exhibit. Over 1,700 birds are on the grounds and this compares very favorably with the state fair.

The baby's health contest was held yesterday in Library Hall, under the auspices of the big Rock county fair. Mrs. J. Baldwin is superintendent of this department. The decided increase in the number of this year's entries over those of last year is confirming evidence of the growing popularity of this movement.

The number of entries in this department breaks all previous records, thirty-one babies being entered. The examination was made by Dr. F. Spencer, assisted by two trained nurses, and the results of their examination will be announced Friday at the fair grounds.

The entries for this year in this department would have been even larger had it not been for the epidemic of whooping cough.

Frank Broughton of Sun Prairie is spending this week here attending the fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hendricks of Milwaukee are spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. Max Fisher and other local relatives.

Only a few of the most intimate friends were present at the ceremony. Mr. Walton has been for many years an employee of the C. M. & St. P. railroad company and has been a faithful servant.

Mrs. Walton has many friends, having lived here many years. She was the donor of many years ago ways contributed to the welfare of the city and needy. They will make their home in the house recently erected on Park street.

The body of Clarke Poynter was brought here from Waukegan last evening and interment was at Hillside cemetery.

TESTING THE VALUE OF THE KINDERGARTEN

The value of the kindergarten as tested by its results was discussed here by Miss A. M. Winchester in an annual review of kindergarten work just issued by the Commissioner of Education.

For several years investigations have been undertaken in different cities," says the review, "for the purpose of ascertaining the advantage gained by children with kindergarten training over non-kindergarten children. The emphasis in these investigations has been placed usually upon the rate of speed with which the children make the successive grades."

The failure of drawing conclusions from such surveys," says Miss Winchester, "is manifest at once. It is well-nigh impossible to gauge the speed correctly, because in the first grade both kindergarten and non-kindergarten children are placed together, and by the rule of uniformity which seems necessary in school systems, the teacher unconsciously standardizes the progress of her class. The jaggedness is brought up by dint of conscientious work, and the forward ones are held in leash, so that by the time the fifth or sixth grade is reached, whatever special impetus may have resulted from the child's kindergarten training has ceased to be measurable."

In any event the permanent value of the kindergarten has little if any connection with the number of years required to go through the grades. The kindergarten's concern is with the content of the years rather than with their number; with the fullness of the life of the child rather than with the mere economy of time. Power to think and do, a tendency to assume right attitudes toward life and ability to work and play happily with one's fellows—these are the results of training based upon the belief in education by development."

An investigation about to be undertaken by the International Kindergarten Union in this field, Miss Winchester points out, will involve making a study in several different cities of one set of children who entered kindergarten five years ago and another set in the same school who did not attend kindergarten. The records of these children will be examined with reference to their interests, attitudes, spirit toward one another, and with reference to their proficiency in school studies. The quality and spirit of the teachers of these children as well as the quality and spirit of the homes from which the children come will be taken into consideration.

PLACED UNDER CUSTODY OF THE CHIEF OF POLICE

George Hassenauer was placed in the custody of Chief of Police P. D. Champion this morning when arraigned for second offense drunkenness. He pleaded not guilty and his case was adjourned until the 27th.

The Importance of the Name
Prest-O-Lite

on Your Gas Tank

If you could take your automobile to any dealer, anywhere in the United States, any time you wished, and exchanged it at small cost for a new car, filled with gasoline and oil, and ready to run—

That would be SERVICE, wouldn't it? That is precisely what Prest-O-Lite service is. There is nothing else like it under the sun. It has no substitute. And there is nothing cheaper.

Tanks wear out and must be replaced. Valves and other parts must be renewed. The INTERIOR, as well as the exterior, must be kept in condition to give full measure of service. Tanks must be tested to see that they comply with government regulations as to strength. Large supplies of tanks must be maintained everywhere for the convenience of the user.

All this is a part of Prest-O-Lite Service.

So long as your tanks bear the name "Prest-O-Lite" you may promptly exchange it for what is practically a brand new Prest-O-Lite, full of purest, cleanest gas, and ready to use—ANYWHERE and EVERYWHERE.

But if your tank does NOT bear the name "Prest-O-Lite" plainly plated on the tank itself, we cannot be responsible for its exchange and repair, nor for its external nor INTERNAL condition.

Remember that no person or firm can "refill" and abuse Prest-O-Lite tanks—the law does not permit it. All he can do is to take your Prest-O-Lite tank away from you, and give you in return a nameless and fatherless thing (not a Prest-O-Lite), backed by—what?

Think Twice before you allow any one to substitute a tank which has no connection with Prest-O-Lite repair and exchange service.

When you turn in your empty tank to be exchanged for a full one, see what you get in return.

Look for the Name Prest-O-Lite

Look at your tank today. If you have already been silently imposed upon, consult us or any dealer handling genuine Prest-O-Lite, and arrange NOW to be protected.

The Prest-O-Lite Company, Inc., Milwaukee Branch, 18 Martin St.
